

Aaron McNaught's SPEAKER PREFERENCES

For the event organizers

Aaron knows what is required to get his presentation delivered with class and perfection ensuring maximum impact and great results for the audience. The good news is he doesn't require much. The following is a list of his ideal requirements and preferences. Aaron is committed to doing his best presentation for you. If some of the following is difficult to arrange then let us reach some compromise and ensure the presentation is not sabotaged because of ineffective room setup.

ROOM & AV SET-UP

Aaron —

- wants to connect with his audience so positioning the front rows seats within 3-5 meters of the platform would be ideal with steps leading down to the ground seating level.
- rarely uses a podium to present. He requires a small table or can make use of a podium for his notes. His preference is to make use of the entire platform and floor space as he connects with the audience.
- has a preference of having the house lights at a medium level and not at full glare. Aaron wants to create an atmosphere of openness leading to optimum sharing and listening. (He does not want to blind anyone from the glare off of his bald head)
- prefers a spotlight and at least two wireless hand-held microphones to be used when connecting with individuals from the audience; for audiences of 500 and plus.
- prefers a wireless (tie clip) microphone.
- drinks a lot of water when speaking for more than 1-hour. He prefers water with added lemon if possible – a full jug or one large bottle is perfect.
- would prefer the audience have access to a pen and blank sheet of paper, and nothing else. Due to the nature of the topic presented, he would prefer an environment with few distractions
- likes to connect with his audience after his presentation and meet anyone for any questions at a dedicated speaker table. He would prefer a table set-up at the back of the room for his CD's, books and autographs.
